LEED platinum

ENVIRONMENTAL CERTIFICATE PURSUANT

This project will pursue LEED Platinum certification under LEED Building Design & Construction for Core and Shell under version 4. The building massing and envelope create an ideal opportunity for a highly efficient predominantly electric office of the future while retaining quality views, and comfortable lighting and temperature. The building is also outfitted with highly efficient water fixtures to decrease demand on the local water supply.

Key aspects

- PV panels on the garage to offset ~20% of building energy use, on top of an already-energy efficient design
- Rainwater management
- Water-use reduction for irrigation, plumbing fixtures, and cooling towers
- Low-emitting finishes
- Daylight and quality views
- Enhanced indoor air quality through increased ventilation & CO2 monitoring
- Drought tolerant landscaping
- Enhanced commissioning for ongoing monitoring and building envelope performance
- Green operational policies for janitorial/pest management services
- Comprehensive composting for the buildings

EV + bike parking

SUPPORTING ALTERNATIVE METHODS OF TRANSPORTATION

The
SOBRATO
Organization

Since 1953, the Sobrato Family has played a pivotal role in shaping Silicon Valley with unique facilities that provide compelling benefits for forward-thinking companies. Led by Chairman and Founder John A. Sobrato and his son, John M. Sobrato, our firm is known for its integrity and dedication to the region. In 1996 we formalized our charitable giving through establishment of our family foundation and have since donated over $600 million to our communities through the Sobrato Philanthropies—consistent with our lifelong belief in giving back.
